

State of the Center February 2008 Update

We thank the many members who offered to volunteer to help and as soon as we have a definitive game plan in place we will ask for your assistance. We need a larger board of directors and active committees. For now, if you happen to run into your elected officials at the bank, grocery store, school event, etc. let him know of your membership and involvement with the center. Continue to speak to your friends and neighbors about the positive impact a community center can have on our community. We offer a place to get and stay healthy all year round; a place to meet new friends, and youth programs through senior programs and hope to expand this even more in the years to come, provided we have the community support to do so.

There have been no significant changes since our last update. The board is continuing to explore options to keep the center viable. We will be meeting with municipal and school district officials in the next few weeks to discuss our situation. Listing property owned by the center (pond and house area) for sale is being aggressively explored, along with the consolidation of the current center to one floor. We will update you again at the end of March, when we should have a much clearer picture of the level of support we have to overcome our immediate obstacles.
